AGGARWAL'S ELECTION A BIG WIN: MEA

15-day window for owners to get power

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister DK Shivakumar announced on Saturday that owners of buildings completed on or before May 31, 2026 will be given a 15-day window to get electricity connections under a special exemption. The period will commence from the date the government order is issued.

Shivakumar said building owners seeking electricity connections must mandatorily submit photographs of their building and GPS-based location. "We have simplified the provisions relating to the occupancy certificate (OC) and completion certificate (CC). Earlier, we had said the benefit would be available to those who had applied for building approval before May 31, 2026. However, contractors pointed out that this would not be practical," he said.

The chief minister said exemptions are provided for certain rural structures, including sericulture sheds and cattle sheds. But, he clarified, the relaxation will not apply to newly constructed buildings. He said the issue was discussed with the ministers of energy, rural development and urban development before arriving at the decision.

22.8 lakh to take NEET retest today

High-security measures in place across 95K centres

S LALITHA @ New Delhi

MORE than 22.8 lakh medical aspirants will appear for the NEET UG re-examination on Sunday, nearly seven weeks after the original test was cancelled following a question paper leak that triggered nationwide outrage.

The re-examination will be held from 2 to 5.15 pm across 551 cities in India and 14 cities abroad. Candidates with disabilities (PwD/PwBD) eligible for compensatory time will be allowed to write the examination till 6.20 pm.

Nine states will see more than one lakh candidates each, led by Uttar Pradesh, followed by Maharashtra (2,22,905) and Rajasthan (2,03,470). Lakshadweep has the lowest number with just 141 candidates. As many as 5,401 foreign candidates will also take the test.

The Centre has installed 1,38,560 CCTV cameras with live feeds being monitored at national, state and ministry levels. As many as 51,311 jammers have been deployed across the 95,000-plus examination centres to prevent electronic malpractice.

A nationwide mega mock drill conducted on Saturday was declared successful. "We checked working of the jammers, CCTVs, seating arrangements, biometrics and police deployment," an NTA official said. "NTA has in place a multi-layered security framework, including secure handling of confidential materials, GPS-enabled vehicles with police escorts for movement of exam materials, CCTVs at all centres linked to centralised control rooms, and biometric authentication."

The National Medical Commission has directed all medical colleges under its purview not to grant leave to students on June 20 and 21. The move comes in the backdrop of instances when medical students were found to be involved in illegal activities that affect the exam process.

This is the last time NEET-UG is being held in written format. From next year, it will be held in online mode.

Drama at Jantar Mantar as CJP refuses to end protest

ADITI RAY CHOWDHURY @ New Delhi

OVER 200 people associated with Cockroach Janta Party (CJP) were still lingering with placards at the Jantar Mantar protest site even as the clock ticked 9 pm on Saturday night. Delhi Police had allowed the protest meet from 1 pm till 5 pm only.

In what remained a visibly peaceful protest, determined faces stood firm amid the sweltering heat. CJP founder Abhijeet Dipke announced in the evening that the protest will continue till the time the

Provide wi-fi: DGCA to all airlines

Only on 28 AI aircraft

Air India website shows in-flight wi-fi is available on 28 aircraft—six Boeing 787-9, six Airbus A350-900, 10 Airbus A321 and six Boeing 777-300. The retrofit Boeing 787-8s are provisioned to offer wi-fi

S LALITHA @ New Delhi

THE Directorate General of Civil Aviation has requested that all domestic airlines provide wi-fi internet access to their passengers on board. As of date, only 28 Air India aircraft offer such connectivity. Multiple airline executives said it is highly unlikely that the airlines would comply with the request.

A communication issued on Friday (June 19) by the Deputy Director General of DGCA, A X Joseph, to the Accountable Manager of all airlines states, "Rule 29B of the Aircraft Rules 1937 allows the use of internet services by passengers on board an aircraft in flight

Carriers warn of cost

An airline executive said, "The expenses for retrofitting will run into crores and the aircraft needs to be pulled out of operations temporarily. It can be considered for new aircraft, but not on existing ones" through wi-fi for use of smartphones in flight mode or airplane mode." It has been issued as a Civil Aviation Requirement (CAR) too, it added.

IndiGo did not respond to this reporter while Air India Express sought more time to get back on the matter.

A SpiceJet source said the airline has been offering an in-flight entertainment system 'Spice screen' for all its passengers since August 2020, using which they can view movies and other content available.

Asked about the possibility of incorporating wi-fi services, an airline source said, "It is not an easy process. The aircraft needs to have antennae to receive a signal. For that, we need to create a hump in the fuselage. It is a costly and time-consuming affair."

Another airline executive said the cost would ultimately be borne by the consumer. "If we add ₹100 or ₹200 as wi-fi charges, the passenger might even not be interested," the executive said.

Now, a separate ministry to redress public woes

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka cabinet on Saturday approved setting up of a separate ministry - Praja Seve Ilakhe (Department of Public Service) - to redress the grievances of the people effectively. A minister will be designated to oversee the department along with a senior IAS officer and other staff.

The move is being interpreted as Congress government's effort to gauge any anti-incumbency sentiment against the government and to stem it before the 2028 Assembly elections.

Defending the initiative, Chief Minister DK Shivakumar said the department is required to understand the feelings of the people, who present their problems and grievances when they meet district in-charge ministers, chief minister or while holding protests. "If things go as per law, everything works out naturally for everyone. But when there is a problem, people come to us. What is important is whether we can provide justice from our side and rectify a mistake if we can. In this context, we are forming the new ministry," he said. P4

Op Tiger hits murder case acquittal roadblock

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ New Delhi

A special CBI court's verdict acquitting all nine accused in the 2006 Pavanraje Nimbalkar murder case appears to have stalled Deputy Chief Minister Eknath Shinde's plan of engineering a second split in the Uddhav faction of the Shiv Sena.

Dr Padmasinh Patil, BJP MLA Ranajagjit Singh Patil's father, and eight others were accused in the case. The court acquitted them all citing lack of evidence. The verdict left Omprakash Nimbalkar, a Lok Sabha member from the Uddhav Sena camp who was weighing the possibility of defecting to the Shinde group as part of what was called Operation Tiger; furious.

"If all accused are acquitted, then who killed my father?" he questioned, adding there has been no closure for his family.

Omprakash was among the six of nine Lok Sabha members who skipped a recent parliamentary party meeting called by the Uddhav Sena in Delhi. If he backs off, rebels would be short of the two-thirds majority mark in the parliamentary party, botching their proposed merging with the Shinde Sena.

Omprakash also said he has not uttered a word against party chief Uddhav Thackeray and Aditya Thackeray and will not speak against them irrespective of his future course.

Ready for talks with TN on Mekedatu: Ramalinga

Says project will benefit both K'taka & TN, primarily intended to meet B'luru's growing drinking water needs and not for irrigation

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

A day after the Tamil Nadu Assembly unanimously adopted a resolution objecting to the Karnataka government's Mekedatu plans, Water Resources Minister Ramalinga Reddy on Saturday said the state government is ready to hold talks with the neighbouring state on the proposed balancing reservoir project and any concerns raised by that state.

Reddy said the Mekedatu project is a major initiative aimed at creating a balancing reservoir to store water during years of deficient rainfall, which occurs once in every four or five years. "We are ready to sit with Tamil Nadu and discuss. If they (Tamil Nadu government) come forward for discussions, we are ready to talk," he said.

He asserted that the project will benefit both Karnataka and Tamil Nadu by regulating water flow in the river and ensuring more efficient release of water to the downstream state. The project is primarily intended to meet Bengaluru's growing drinking water requirements and not for irrigation purposes. Bengaluru would receive about 4.75 tmcft of drinking water from the reservoir, while the project would also generate nearly 400 MW of electricity, he said.

Explaining the need for the reservoir, he added that Karnataka is obligated to release water to Tamil Nadu as mandated by the Cauvery Water Disputes Tribunal. "In years of deficient rainfall, a reservoir will help Karnataka meet its obligations, while ensuring drinking water security," he said.

Reddy said Karnataka is required to release 19.19 tmcft of water in June, 24 tmcft in July, 45.95 tmcft in August and 36 tmcft in September as per the tribunal's directions. As of today, the state has a reserve of 16 tmcft of water in the major two Cauvery reservoirs—KRS and Kabini. Of this, after drinking water needs, the state will be left with only 3 tmcft, he said.

Mekedatu is a storage and drinking water project that would serve interests of both states, ensuring better management of Cauvery water, he said.

BJP-JDS will fight 2028 polls together: HDK

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

UNION Minister for Steel and Heavy Industries HD Kumaraswamy on Saturday asserted that the JDS and BJP will contest the 2028 Karnataka Assembly elections together and said the recent cross-voting in the Legislative Council elections will not impact the alliance between the two parties.

Kumaraswamy will also meet BJP National President Nitin Nabin in New Delhi to brief him about the political developments in the aftermath of the Council polls, which witnessed cross-voting by NDA legislators. Kumaraswamy said the JDS had 17 votes and had expected 4-5 additional votes from the BJP. He, however, admitted that even with those extra votes, the party would not have secured a victory.

"We had sought the BJP's excess votes. Even if we had received 22 votes, we would not have won. But it would have boosted the confidence of JDS workers," he said, maintaining that cross-voting was not an unusual phenomenon and cited similar instances in other states. The former CM said he had consulted JDS legislators before fielding a candidate and had also discussed the matter with state BJP President BY Vijayendra, Leader of Opposition in Assembly R Ashoka and BJP National President Nitin Nabin.

Dismissing speculation about cracks in the alliance, Kumaraswamy said there was mutual trust between BJP and JDS. "This will not affect our alliance. We are going to fight the 2028 Assembly elections together," he said, urging the media not to exaggerate the issue. Kumaraswamy also said he had told JDS MLAs that those who felt they had no future in the party were free to leave, but should not adopt double standard.

Hariprasad, a Congress thoroughbred, who will lead party in Karnataka

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Bengaluru

THE state is all set to witness 71-year-old Congress thoroughbred Bengaluru Kempaiah Hariprasad taking charge as new president of the Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) at Palace Grounds on Sunday. He was a Congress Working Committee permanent invitee and Haryana state in-charge before being elevated to the post. A four-time Rajya Sabha member and two-time MLC, he is a staunch loyalist of the Nehru-Gandhi family, who has worked closely with Congress Parliamentary Party chief Sonia Gandhi.

Kodandarama Nagara - close to Malleswaram, where Hariprasad was born and brought up, wore a festive look with residents, especially women, welcoming him with traditional aarti during his padayatra on Saturday.

CM DK Shivakumar, who was KPCC president, will hand over the party flag officially to Hariprasad at 11 am. Hariprasad was among the five party candidates elected in the recent MLC polls, helping the party achieve the majority mark of 39 in a 75-member House.

That victory has apparently energised the party's rank and file. They will now pin their hopes on the Hariprasad-Shivakumar combination to work their magic to get the party re-lected in the 2028 Assembly polls. Soon after Siddaramaiah passed the CM baton to Shivakumar, the party high command picked Hariprasad, who hails from the Ediga community, in a backward classes outreach.

The Sunday rally, where Siddaramaiah too will be felicitated, will be attended by over one lakh people, said former Bengaluru Rural MP DK Suresh, Shivakumar's younger brother. AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge, AICC General Secretary (Organisation) KC Venugopal and state in-charge Randeep Singh Surjewala are expected to attend. KPCC working president and Rajya Sabha member GC Chandrashekar requested party workers not to hold up traffic in view of the NEET retest. Around 350 dignitaries will be on the main stage, while 200 others on the other one. Party workers will be ferried in 1,200 buses.

The congregation will pass a resolution to make leader of opposition in the Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi the prime minister in 2029 and also to bring the party to power in the state in 2028. "This is not just a power transfer programme. It is a party organisation ceremony, a ceremony for the future. This will be a platform to take a big decision. The next two years are election years," said GC Chandrashekar.

THE Karnataka Cabinet on Saturday approved the formation of a special team of officials to identify Union Government schemes that can be brought to the state and to explore funding opportunities under various Centrally-sponsored programmes.

Chief Minister DK Shivakumar said that the team will study the schemes implemented in states such as Tamil Nadu, Andhra Pradesh and Gujarat and identify opportunities that Karnataka can avail to maximise Central assistance. Shivakumar felt that the Residential Commissioner's office in Delhi did not live up to his expectations following which he will restructure it. "So, we are reorganising it. Shivakumar said that he has held meetings with senior officials from Karnataka working in Delhi and taken their suggestions. The CM also revealed that he will be appointing five or six retired civil service officers, who have come forward to serve, with the responsibilities to explore the opportunities.

Meanwhile, the Chief Minister informed that a legal cell in Delhi will be set up to handle Supreme Court and other cases concerning the state.

"WHEN some ministers go on visits, people submit applications, which in turn are given to me. We will bring all these issues under the new department. All ministers will be involved in this department," Chief Minister DK Shivakumar said.

"The department will receive all grievances and verify them to provide information. It is not just a postman's job. The ministry will provide information and do whatever possible to ensure justice," he added. He said all district in-charge ministers should hold Jana Spandana, or public interaction, meetings one day of the week at all taluk headquarters in all the 224 constituencies to hear out grievances of the public by involving local MLAs.

The grievances raised there will be brought to the Jana Seve Ilakhe for review and redressal. The responsibilities of MLAs will be defined soon in a government order, he said. HDK 'architect' of Bidadi township, says DKS; Ready to release documents: Ex-CM

CHIEF Minister DK Shivakumar on Saturday hit out at Union Minister HD Kumaraswamy for opposing the Bidadi township project, saying that the latter was its "architect". Hitting back, Kumaraswamy said that he can substantiate his stand by providing documents.

CM Shivakumar said that Kumaraswamy, as CM, had notified the project, and later BS Yediyurappa continued it. "We are only taking the project forward and are not doing anything new," the CM said, accusing the Opposition of politicising the issue. He said the State Government is offering farmers 50% of the developed land, up from the 40% proposed earlier. He said the process of paying compensation of Rs 2.5 crore per acre has commenced.

Lambasting Kumaraswamy for opposing the project, Shivakumar asked why the former CM had declared the area a 'Red Zone' and why the project was not denotified during his tenure. Shivakumar said nearly 80% of farmers have agreed to part with their land for the project and reiterated that the State Government would proceed with the project in accordance with the law.

Kumaraswamy said that discussions on the project had taken place when he was the CM in 2007. Kumaraswamy said he would release documents to clarify his position. He questioned the State Government's land acquisition process, alleging that compensation cheques were distributed through local MLA instead of officials. "They are trying to woo farmers. Let the people also know what their stand was," he said.

Priyank: Like me, Shah must seek details on RSS activities

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

HOME Minister Priyank Kharge on Saturday urged Union Home Minister Amit Shah to seek details from the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) about its activities to ensure transparency in its functioning, as he did a few days ago. Referring to objections from various organisations, including BJP, to his letter to RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat seeking information on the registration of the Sangh, Priyank said the organisation has its shakhas across the country... It should give a report on the number of shakhas, those running them, and funds to run them in the interest of the nation and to ensure transparency in its functioning.

"I have already written to the RSS chief. Let him reply. It is a 100-year-old organisation and documents related to its registration might have been misplaced," he told reporters.

"When RSS members march in public, who gives them security? Is it the department of commerce or the women and child welfare department? The home department gives them security. Being the home minister of the state, I want to know to whom security is given," he said. Taunting BJP state chief BY Vijayendra, Priyank advised him not to go to Delhi as the party high command is likely to ask him to step down over the issue of cross voting.

He lashed out at Union Minister HD Kumaraswamy for alleging that the Congress had offered Rs 50-Rs 60 crore to MLAs from opposition parties to cross vote in the Council election.

Contrasting methods adopted in the two elections has created confusion and raised questions about the intent behind the respective rules — S Suresh Kumar, BJP MLA

Home Stays Boost Rural Tourism

Away from the hustle and bustle of city life, tourists are appreciating Uttarakhand's home stays, enjoying warm hospitality in small villages nestled in the beautiful valleys of the mountains. Home stays are now giving rural tourism in Uttarakhand a new identity.

To develop livelihood opportunities in villages affected by migration, the Deen Dayal Upadhyay Griha Aawas (Home Stay) Scheme has emerged as a success story. The aim of the scheme is to attract domestic and international tourists to rural areas of Uttarakhand, familiarize them with the state's rich culture and cuisine, and simultaneously strengthen the rural economy. Under this scheme, over 5,703 home stays have been registered across the state. Additionally, under the Trekking Traction Centre Home Stay Grant Scheme, grants are being provided for the construction of home stays in villages located within a 2 km radius of identified Trekking traction centers. So far, 101 villages across 6 districts have been notified, and over 500 individuals have been identified under this initiative. Furthermore, under the Virchandra Singh Garhwali Tourism Self-Employment Scheme, grants are provided for vehicles and the construction of tourism units, benefiting over 7,300 people to date.

KANNADA CONCERN

Act on B'gavi row probe: Chief secy to officials

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Belagavi

THE long-standing controversy over the implementation of resolutions reaffirming Belagavi's status as an integral part of Karnataka, as well as other Kannada-related concerns, has entered its final phase. Acting on a formal complaint, the office of the State Chief Secretary has instructed the relevant authorities to undertake a detailed investigation and take necessary action in accordance with the outcome of the inquiry.

The functioning of the Belagavi City Corporation has been facing allegations of acting against Karnataka's interests for quite a long time. The officials have also been instructed to submit a detailed report to the government and inform the complainant about the action taken.

The directive was issued on June 10 following a petition submitted to the Chief Minister's Office by Ashok Chandrangi, the president of the Belagavi District Kannada Organisations Action Committee. The communication further mandates that details of the action be uploaded to the Janaspandana IGRS portal and that a formal response be provided to the complainant. Kannada organizations have raised objections to several decisions and policies adopted by the corporation, alleging official indifference to concerns relating to language and regional identity.

Authorities are expected to explain, with supporting records, what decisions were allegedly taken against the interests of Kannada and Karnataka, who was responsible for them, and whether there were lapses in implementing the state's language policy.

NRI entrepreneur Dr Ronald Colaco and others felicitate KPCC chief BK Hariprasad on Saturday | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

Need separate ministry, demand NRI Kannadigas

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

TO address the growing concerns of overseas Kannadigas relating to welfare, employment, investments, legal assistance, student support and emergency services, Non-Resident Kannadigas (NRKs) have urged the Karnataka government to set up a separate Ministry for NRI Karnataka Affairs along with a dedicated Secretariat and Directorate and demanded that MLC Arathi Krishna be made its minister.

A 30-member delegation of Global Non-Resident Kannadigas led by NRI Entrepreneur and Philanthropist Dr Ronald Colaco, met Chief Minister DK Shivakumar with the demand.

Addressing the media, Dr Ronald Colaco said, "As per official estimates, there are over 18 lakh Kannadigas across 100 countries. While states like Kerala, Tamil Nadu, Gujarat, Andhra Pradesh, Telangana, Uttar Pradesh and Punjab have a dedicated NRI Ministry, Karnataka lacks one, and we demand it to be set up."

"If Karnataka has to develop quickly, it has to tap all the resources. Instead of investors dealing with as many as 25 government departments to invest in the state, a dedicated Ministry handling them and getting clearances through a single-window facility would help get more investments", he explained.

FORMAL EXIT

IUML ends ties with DMK, to continue in TVK

S KUMARESAN @ Chennai

THE Indian Union Muslim League (IUML) on Saturday formally announced it would continue in the Tamilgala Vettri Kazhagam (TVK)-led alliance and would no longer remain part of the DMK-led front.

The decision was taken at the party's state general council meeting held in Chennai. One of the resolutions adopted at the meeting said the party had supported the formation of the TVK government after respecting the mandate given by the people in the 2026 Assembly election. It also noted the IUML is part of the government headed by Chief Minister C Joseph Vijay and that, under the present political situation, it is not possible for the party to continue in the DMK alliance.

Speaking to reporters after the meeting, IUML national president KM Kader Mohideen said the party had been a long-time ally of the DMK and had won elections only as part of the DMK-led alliance. He said the IUML had expected the DMK alliance to return to power and had campaigned strongly for it during the election. However, after the results were announced, the party leadership held discussions with DMK president MK Stalin and other leaders before deciding to extend support to the TVK government without any conditions to avoid political uncertainty in the state.

In another resolution, IUML urged the state government to carry out ward delimitation for local bodies based on population rather than the number of houses. The party alleged the previous delimitation exercise was carried out using the number of houses as the main criterion, leading to major differences in voter strength between wards.

Another DMK ally, MDMK, has scheduled its general council meeting for June 27.

THIMMAPUR VILLAGE in Gadag district shot to fame after its proud son Mahesh Mahalingappa Ghatradyal was conferred with the National Order of the Legion of Honour, the highest civilian award of France, in 2005 for popularising yoga in that country.

Yoga lovers in Gadag and nearby districts pay rich tributes to him on the International Day of Yoga every year. Mahesh started teaching hatha yoga in France in the early 1950s. Though he spent most part of his life in France, Mahesh never forgot his roots.

On the advice of his wife Monica, Mahesh founded an organisation, France Inde Karnataka, in 1994 to build a hospital in Halligudi, a backward village on Gadag-Koppal road. The foundation stone for the hospital was laid in 1995, and the France-Karnataka Public Hospital started operations in 1997. The hospital has been providing free treatment and medicines to the poor since then. Beyond yoga, Mahesh devoted himself to literary activities. He authored several books in French on yoga, philosophy and Indian culture.

His works include Naitre en Yoga, La Bhakti Yoga de Akkamahadevi, Réverie de Basava, Atma Bodha, Vedanta, Pardonne-moi, Yoga et Symbolisme, Le Souffle et Parole de Vie. In recognition of his contributions to yoga and literature, he was honoured with the National Order of Merit on December 18, 1996.

He passed away in Paris in August 2007. His ashes were later brought to Halligudi and a memorial was built in his honour on the premises of France-Karnataka Public Hospital. His daughter Juliette Sushila now teaches yoga in France and organises programmes to mark the International Day of Yoga. She visits Halligudi every year on his birthday and organises health camps for people in rural areas.

Dr Basavaraj Chennappaogudar, who works in France-Karnataka Public Hospital, said, "Around 100 patients visit the hospital every day.

After Mahesh's death, Taralubalu Jagadguru Dr Shivamurta Shivacharya Swamiji took charge as president of the hospital administration. The hospital provides allopathy and Ayurveda services."

Started practising yoga at 5

Mahesh was sent to Shivayoga Mandir in Dharwad district of erstwhile Bombay Presidency when he was five years old. He learnt yoga, Vedas and Upanishads from Mrutyunjay Swamiji and became a yogi.

TRUMP'S WAR & PEACE: NOW YOU SEE IT, NOW YOU DON'T

THE ironies of history from the Palace of Versailles eerily reverberate across the world. These halls gilded with gold leaf and over 350 mirrors hosted world leaders in 1919 who signed the Treaty of Versailles for peace. The treaty created a landscape of anger and fomented World War II.

US President Donald J Trump, a fan of gilded halls, chose the same venue to sign the US-Iran peace deal. Folks at the US State department may have winced, but he went ahead! Déjà vu followed soon enough. The first clause in the 14-point MoU called for "the immediate and permanent termination of military operations on all fronts, including in Lebanon". The first casualty of what followed was also Clause 1. Within hours, the promise of peace unravelled as Israel carried out 12 air raids on multiple locations in Lebanon. Unsurprisingly, Iran called off the talks scheduled for Friday in Switzerland and closed the strait on Sunday.

The promise of peace is illusory, like a mirage on the desert—now you see it, now you don't. Friday became a cacophony of contradictory news. Trump claimed, "We didn't meet out of desperation, Iran did. They are FINISHED!" And a few hours later, posted a poll endorsing the peace deal. Attacks continued on the Lebanon arena even as Israel and Hezbollah claimed agreeing on a ceasefire. The peace deal faces threats from within the alliance—a US intelligence report warns, 'Israel would undermine the peace deal'.

The outpouring of vitriol is unabated. Finance minister Bezalel Smotrich wants Israel to 'open the gates of hell' in Lebanon. Another minister, Itamar Ben Gvir, a key ally of Benjamin Netanyahu, poured bile telling the US that the "security of our citizens are not forfeit". He also called for an end to the "ping-pong" and said, "You don't win with measured responses and restraint—you need to go berserk."

The diatribe of Israeli ministers going berserk didn't go unchecked. US Vice President J D Vance read the riot act, chapter and verse. Defending the peace deal, he asked, "What is your exact proposal? You're a country of 9 million people. You can't just kill your way out of solving every single national security problem that you have." Vance also warned, "If I was in the cabinet of the Israeli government, I might not be attacking the only powerful ally that I have left anywhere the entire world."

The architecture of the agreement has troubling faultlines. On Lebanon, for instance, two parties signed it but the third party—the one bombing Lebanon—is not a signatory! Netanyahu ruled out any immediate withdrawal from Lebanon, saying that Israel's forces would remain there "for as long as necessary". He can say so because the deal is not binding on him. It is moot if Trump can prevail over Netanyahu.

The opening of the Hormuz Strait is riveted by confusion. There are 250 tankers and over 300 ships waiting for clearance of mines and clearance from insurers. The MoU says Iran will allow passage for vessels with no charge for 60 days. While Iran says there will be a fee after 60 days, on which the MoU is silent. The MoU says Iran will consult Oman and others to define the future of the strait. Iran has already initiated steps for fee-based passage. A Lloyd's report states Iran has introduced mandatory insurance for all vessels transiting the strait.

The deal triggered a series of memes in the US, from letting Iran keep missiles to the $300-billion investment. The MoU specifies that the US and regional partners will design the fund for Iran's reconstruction, but doesn't specify who will pay. The thought outraged Republicans and the ambiguity has sparked apprehension among Gulf countries, who may be on the hook for the tab. Public ire has forced DJT and JD to reiterate that the US is not paying. The spin hasn't found traction as yet.

The 60-day deadline is ambitious given the array of contentious issues—the Obama-era JCPOA took over 20 months. The nuclear issue demands expertise and time—who will pull out the uranium, what is the process of de-blending, who will monitor? Iran has assets frozen across the world, estimated at around $100 billion. What will be the process? What is the sequence—will sanctions be lifted first? Will there be conditions?

Interestingly, the 'peace deal' has been criticised in both Iran and the US. In Iran, the hardline supporters of the regime, especially the hard-line Paydari Front, chanted, "What about my leader's blood?" Those against the regime, including those pro-Pahlavi and other agitators, feel betrayed as the deal strengthens the regime. In the US, Republican Senator Bill Cassidy tweeted, "Reagan is rolling over in his grave." Further right, the MAGA group is outraged as they see the MoU as capitulation to Iran.

Vance has blamed Iranian propaganda for the anger among Republicans! A familiar rant is that Iran has got the better of the US both in war and the deal. The good news is prices are down and indices are up—the market has taken the peace as a given. Ironically, the MoU is scaffolded not by political conviction but by economic compulsions, the expediency of affordability before the mid-term polls.

Napoleon believed he was conquering Russia. Trump thought he could do a Venezuela in Iran. Leaders who believe they are dictating the course of events, in reality, are commanded by them—swept forward by forces which subsume their vanity. "Kings are the slaves of history," wrote Leo Tolstoy in War and Peace.

QUOTE CORNER

Italy and I never beg. I'm frankly stunned, even though this is not happening for the first time... I don't know why the US President behaves this way towards allies. It's a pity that he does not show the same determination against the enemies of the West.

WHILE ideologies unite, individuals divide. In the sprawling arena of Indian democracy, where more than 500 parties national, regional, state-level and even unrecognised compete for the mandate to govern a nation of 1.5 billion, a stark truth is emerging. Ideologies can bind disparate groups into coherent movements. Personalities, however, often fracture them when their aura fades. Across the country, once-mighty regional outfits built around a single leader's charisma, caste arithmetic or linguistic pride are unravelling with surprising speed. The glue that held them together was never abstract doctrine but the promise of proximity to power, and that promise is proving perishable.

Take West Bengal's Trinamool Congress. Mamata Banerjee carved it out of the Congress in 1998, infusing it with a potent mix of anti-Left populism, Bengali cultural assertion and personalised welfare. For two decades, it functioned less as a party and more as an extension of one woman's will. When electoral reverses struck, the collapse was swift. Within hours, the edifice revealed itself as a patronage network rather than an ideological home. Legislators who had sworn loyalty to 'Didi' discovered that loyalty had always been transactional. Without the assured return to power and the accompanying lifestyle, the flock scattered. It was not the defeat of an idea but the exposure of an individual's diminished capacity to deliver.

A parallel drama unfolded in Tamil Nadu. The Dravidian parties once stood as bulwarks of regional identity, language pride and social justice against perceived northern cultural hegemony. Yet both the DMK and the AIADMK have lost their once-unquestioned dominance. The DMK's organisational muscle could not prevent an erosion of its core appeal when leadership transitions diluted the ideological fire. The AIADMK, already splintered after Jayalalithaa's passing, found itself led by successors who lacked the commanding presence to hold the flock. Lawmakers began migrating towards newer platforms that promised relevance in a changing national landscape.

Maharashtra offers perhaps the clearest textbook case. Shiv Sena, forged by Bal Thackeray as a movement of Marathi pride and later Hindutva assertion, split when Uddhav Thackeray proved unable to match his father's commanding style. Eknath Shinde's rebellion succeeded because a critical mass of legislators calculated that alignment with the national dispensation offered better prospects than loyalty to a diminished legacy. The same calculus played out in the Nationalist Congress Party. Sharad Pawar, a master strategist who had broken from Congress decades earlier, could no longer shield his flock from the gravitational pull of the ruling coalition. His nephew Ajit Pawar led a section across, recognising that the elder Pawar's stature, however formidable, no longer translated into assured tickets or protection.

Even the Aam Aadmi Party, which burst onto the scene with an anti-corruption, governance-first ideology and secured thumping majorities in Delhi and Punjab, has not been immune. Arvind Kejriwal built a formidable personal brand around welfare delivery and confrontation with the establishment. Yet several prominent figures quietly shifted allegiance to the BJP, calculating that the national party offered swifter advancement and institutional ballast. These are not isolated tremors.

They reflect a deeper structural shift.

The generation of regional satraps who dominated the coalition era—Sharad Pawar, M Karunanidhi, Mulayam Singh Yadav, Jayalalithaa, Naveen Patnaik, Prakash Singh Badal—commanded respect through decades of grassroots work and personal credibility. They could win their own seats and deliver victories for others. Their successors, often educated abroad and accustomed to different rhythms of life, have struggled to replicate that connect. N Chandrababu Naidu's son Lokesh and TRS founder K Chandrasekhar Rao's son KTR are more global citizens than Telugu biddas. While sons are finding it difficult to rise from East, they are setting in the West.

Barring a few exceptions, the next generation has shown limited appetite for relentless constituency work. The resulting frustration among cadres has accelerated desertions. At the centre of this realignment stands Prime Minister Narendra Modi. He has achieved what few leaders manage: the fusion of a commanding personality with a coherent ideological project of assertive nationalism and welfare delivery. Through direct communication, targeted schemes and institutional leverage, he has created a bond with voters that bypass traditional party intermediaries.

Even after the 2024 verdict denied the BJP an outright majority, Modi's authority within the government and the party has arguably grown rather than diminished. For ambitious politicians across the spectrum, the BJP now appears as the most reliable vehicle for electoral success and long-term political security. They cannot reliably shield their members from investigative agencies, nor can they guarantee legislative berths in an era of national consolidation.

The old arithmetic of regional satraps extracting concessions from a weak centre no longer holds. As a result, the political marketplace is witnessing a wave of mergers, acquisitions and quiet realignments. The Congress, after years of attrition, has shown signs of stabilisation. It remains the only national alternative with residual organisational presence in several states, and is viewed by many as the eventual counterweight should the BJP's dominance ever face serious challenge. The Left, once a formidable ideological force, has receded further as market realities and voter aspirations shifted. The battlefield is narrowing towards a contest between a left-of-centre formation anchored by the Congress and a right-of-centre formation led by the BJP—both increasingly national in character, both led by individuals who have successfully married personality to ideology.

This is not merely the story of individual leaders losing relevance. It is the story of Indian democracy shedding an earlier phase of extreme fragmentation. The coalition era produced vibrant regional voices but also chronic instability, policy paralysis and the elevation of transactional politics over governance. The current churn, while painful for those caught in its vortex, may be producing a more accountable system in which parties must demonstrate sustained performance rather than rely on one person's fading charisma. A politics dominated by two national poles may reduce space for nuanced local voices. The test for Indian democracy will be whether this consolidation preserves genuine competition and institutional checks, or whether it slides into a personality-driven dominance that merely replaces multiple small fiefdoms with one large one.

It appears that, as of now, India's political architecture is not collapsing. It is being reconfigured. The coming years will reveal whether this reconfiguration produces a more coherent and effective democracy or simply concentrates power in fewer hands. What is already clear is that the age of the purely personality-driven regional fortress is drawing to a close. In its place, a sturdier contest between competing national visions may be taking shape—one in which ideas and ideologies crafted by mighty individuals will ultimately decide who governs and how.

WHEN FOOTBALL SPOTLIGHTS THE VOICELESS

Former UN spokesperson

WHEN Curaçao's football team played their opening match of the FIFA World Cup last Sunday, what mattered most was not the scoreline. They lost 1-7 to mighty Germany. But for one evening, a Caribbean island of just 150,000 people shared football's grandest stage with one of the sport's superpowers. Until then, few outside the Caribbean had ever heard of Curaçao, a constituent country of the Kingdom of the Netherlands that is not among the 193 member states of the United Nations. Yes, for 90 minutes, Curaçao players represented their people before a global audience of billions.

The 2026 World Cup has highlighted a curious fact—football recognises a broader range of human communities than the international political system does. Fifa has 211 member associations, 18 more than the UN. Those additional members include territories, dependencies and communities whose political status may be disputed, ambiguous or unresolved, but whose identities are no less real.

Millions live in territories that possess distinct histories, institutions and aspirations, yet have little or no direct voice in global affairs. The UN remains one of humanity's most ambitious political projects. But admission to it has never been determined solely by legal criteria. Recognition is ultimately political. Powerful states and geopolitical rivalries often decide who gets a seat.

Fifa evolved differently. Its membership reflects history, sporting traditions and cultural identities rather than strict definitions of sovereignty. As a result, the footballing map of the world often differs from the political one hanging on the walls of classrooms.

The four British nations provide the most familiar example. England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland each compete independently despite belonging to the United Kingdom. The Faroe Islands field their own team while remaining part of the Danish realm. Hong Kong and Macau participate separately despite being part of China. Aruba and Curaçao play under their own flags although they remain linked constitutionally to the Netherlands.

No one questions their place on the football field. Yet many of these same entities would find it difficult, if not impossible, to secure independent representation in international diplomacy.

The issue extends far beyond football. Take Taiwan. Home to more than 23 million people, it has its own government, military, judiciary, passport system and one of the world's most sophisticated economies. Taiwan possesses expertise that could contribute significantly to discussions on public health, trade, climate policy and tech standards.

Yet because of the dispute surrounding its political status, Taiwan remains excluded from the UN. While its athletes compete internationally under the name Chinese Taipei, its citizens remain outside the principal institution that claims to represent the world's peoples.

Millions of people live in small territories like Curaçao, which are not recognised as separate states by the UN. But on the football field, identity is not measured solely by diplomatic recognition

Western Sahara presents yet another unresolved case. For decades, the territory has remained the subject of competing claims and diplomatic deadlock. While Morocco, which claims the territory, prepares for the spotlight of international football and will co-host the next World Cup, the Sahrawi people remain largely absent from both global sport and global politics.

Exclusion carries costs. Limited international standing can complicate trade, restrict access to development financing, reduce participation in international programmes and diminish influence over decisions that affect daily life. During global crises, from pandemics to climate-related disasters, exclusion can carry practical costs.

Small island territories know this well. Places such as Curaçao face challenges ranging from economic vulnerability to rising sea levels. Yet their ability to shape international responses often depends on larger states whose priorities may not fully coincide with their own.

This gap between those affected by global decisions and those empowered to shape them is one of the quieter shortcomings of the contemporary international system. None of this means that every territory seeking recognition should automatically become a sovereign state. The world is too complex for such simple solutions.

But there are alternatives between full recognition and complete exclusion. Observer status, participation in specialised agencies and greater access to international forums can provide meaningful avenues for engagement without prejudging sovereignty disputes.

Today, millions of people live in political entities that fall somewhere between recognised states and ordinary regions. But on the football field, identity is not measured solely by diplomatic recognition. Long after this World Cup is over, it may endure as a reminder that beyond the official map of the world lie those whose identities and aspirations do not always fit the categories recognised by international diplomacy. Football found room for them.

Prudent promises

Ref: Kerala admits fiscal gaps (Jun 20). The editorial rightly highlights the growing concern over the state's financial health. Many ordinary citizens feel that the budget falls short of presenting a clear and practical roadmap to overcome the structural weaknesses. What Kerala needs today is a comprehensive strategy that enhances revenue collection, curbs wasteful expenditure, improves the efficiency of public enterprises and attracts productive investments without compromising on social welfare. The people of Kerala are willing to support difficult but necessary reforms, provided they are transparent, equitable and aimed at securing the state's long-term stability.

Walkers' dignity

Ref: Let's keep walking (Jun 20). The Supreme Court's observation that safe footpaths are a fundamental right is a timely reminder to civic authorities. For years, citizens have been highlighting how footpaths meant for pedestrians have been occupied by vendors, parked vehicles, shop extensions, advertisement boards and even government utilities. As a result, pedestrians are forced on to busy roads, risking accidents every day. A footpath is not a luxury but an essential public facility, especially for children, senior citizens and persons with disabilities. The court's ruling should now compel municipal authorities to reclaim encroached footpaths and ensure they remain obstruction-free. Development should be measured also by the safety and dignity of those who walk.

Knowledge hub

Ref: It's not all about money (Jun 20). Chief Minister V D Satheesan's maiden budget as finance minister proved lacklustre, as it was more of a statement on the state's missed dreams during earlier governments. No wonder the UDF government has realised the futility of shying away from private capital coupled with restrictions that hamper commercial investments. The case of neglect for the higher education sector, which compels students to go to other states or abroad, seems to have been understood. If improved by inviting leading global and national universities, it can make Kerala a knowledge hub.

Ineffective ban

Ref: NTA takes to WhatsApp for neat NEET (Jun 20). While the series of measures by the NTA are appreciable, the blanket ban on Telegram is hardly effective for the process given the possibility of access through virtual private networks. Though it's been approved by the Delhi High Court, such a ban could have been avoided. Instead, security should have been further tightened at the source points, rather than trying to control an open space like the internet. The effect would be similar to the act of wearing sandals to protect the feet, instead of rolling out a carpet on the road.

Serving faith

Ref: Govt cancels nod for 46 temple infrastructure works (Jun 20). The state's move is welcome. The earlier DMK government's plan to divert temple funds for marriage halls and commercial complexes was ill conceived. Temple money is devotees' money and must be used only for temple upkeep, daily rituals and devotees' facilities. Thousands of non-descript temples can't even conduct puja three times a day for the want of funds. Redirecting this amount to revive such temples and ensure basic rituals would be a real service to faith.

Student gets Abu Dhabi centre, NTA says no fault

NEET testing agency lets Nagpur candidate appear in home town

S LALITHA @ New Delhi

THE National Testing Agency (NTA) on Saturday claimed that the allotment of Abu Dhabi as the examination centre for a Nagpur-based aspirant for the NEET-UG retest on June 21 was done only because the request came from the candidate.

"Despite that, the agency has agreed to concede to the informal request from the family and change the centre to Nagpur as it did not want a single candidate to miss the exam," the NTA said in a statement.

Earlier in the day, the family of a NEET aspirant, Abdullah Mohammad Talib, had claimed that he was allotted a school in Abu Dhabi as his exam centre when they checked on June 19. His father, Mohammad Talib, had said that his son had cried all night and did not even have a visa to the Gulf nation.

The NTA said that the exam-city correction window was opened to assist candidates after rescheduling to June 21. "NTA's web-activity records indicate that the city change in this case was made through the candidate's registered login during the open correction window, with a consistent single-user access pattern," it said.

The NTA has observed that on three occasions, the candidate knew the centre was Abu Dhabi. "During one login, the centre was changed to Abu Dhabi using candidate's credentials and twice it was previewed that the centre is Abu Dhabi," it said.

Error corrected: From Dehradun to Bhubaneswar

A NEET-UG aspirant from Bhubaneswar in Odisha, Sanjana Sanjibani, was allotted an exam centre at Dehradun in Uttarakhand. After her father reported the glitch, NTA announced in a post on X that the issue has been rectified and that she had been allotted Bhubaneswar.

Despite the Abu Dhabi centre being chosen by the candidate, the NTA received an informal request on the evening of June 19 (just 48 hours before the exam) to change the centre to Nagpur, it said. "NTA personnel immediately initiated the change and contacted the candidate's father on 19th evening itself to help them complete the formal process," the statement said. "The NTA follows a student-first approach and is keen that no candidate misses the examination over an administrative doubt," it added.

Around 3.2 lakh candidates used the correction window, and the NTA allotted the preferred examination city to over 99.5% of them, it said, emphasising the high success rate in allotment of exam centres.

The NTA said that it has put in place comprehensive arrangements to ensure a "fair, secure and candidate-friendly" conduct of re-examination.

More than 22.79 lakh medical aspirants will appear for the re-examination on Sunday, nearly seven weeks after the original test was cancelled following allegations of a paper leak that triggered nationwide outrage, political sparring and legal challenges.

The re-examination will be held from 2 pm to 5.15 pm across 551 cities in India and 14 cities abroad. Candidates with disabilities eligible for compensatory time will be allowed to write till 6.20 pm.

Senior IAS officer to be first Indian VP of global terror finance watchdog

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

INDIA on Friday secured the vice presidency of the Financial Action Task Force (FATF), the global watchdog that sets standards to combat money laundering and terrorist financing. The appointment was announced at the conclusion of the FATF plenary meeting held at its headquarters in Paris from June 17-19.

Union Culture Secretary Vivek Aggarwal, a 1994-batch IAS officer of the Madhya Pradesh cadre, has been appointed as the incoming Vice-President of FATF for the 2026-27 term. He will succeed UK national Giles Thomson, who currently holds the post.

"Members approved the priorities of the FATF under the incoming UK presidency, and appointed Vivek Aggarwal of India as the incoming Vice-President of the FATF (July 2026 to June 2027)," the FATF said in a statement.

India, which became a member of FATF in 2010, will occupy this leadership position for the first time. A senior official noted, "Aggarwal has earlier led the Indian delegation to FATF and has been closely associated with India's engagements on anti-money laundering and counter-terror financing frameworks."

Aggarwal was also an additional secretary in the Union finance ministry at the time of India's latest mutual evaluation report published in 2024, which praised India's performance in tackling illicit finance.

Reinforcing the strategic significance of the appointment, the Ministry of External Affairs said India's elevation reflects its broader global security commitments.

Govt bans 16 'combo' drugs for being risky, not effective

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

THE Centre has banned the manufacture, sale and distribution of 16 fixed-dose combination (FDC) drugs with immediate effect, saying they lack "therapeutic justification" and their use was not considered beneficial keeping in mind the potential risks involved.

The decision comes after the Supreme Court mandated a comprehensive review of FDCs available in the country. In compliance with the directions, the Drugs Technical Advisory Board (DTAB) constituted an Expert Committee to examine various FDCs and identify those that are irrational, lack therapeutic justification, or may pose health risks.

FDC drugs contain a combination of two or more active pharmaceutical ingredients (APIs) in a fixed ratio. The prohibited FDCs belong to various therapeutic categories, including certain dermatological preparations, analgesic and antispasmodic medicines, and antibiotic-based formulations.

The Union health ministry issued notifications under Section 26A of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940, prohibiting the manufacture for sale and distribution for human use of 16 FDCs with immediate effect. The ministry noted that this action is in line with the government's continuing efforts to ensure that only safe, effective and scientifically validated medicines reach the public.

Officials said in previous instances as well, several irrational FDCs were prohibited following detailed scientific review, reinforcing the commitment of the government to towards patient safety and evidence-based healthcare. The ministry said all state

ABHISHEK BANERJEE

THE NEPHEW AND THE NEPO KID OF POLITICS

SUBHENDU MAITI

IN West Bengal politics, few relationships have shaped a party's future as profoundly as the one between Mamata Banerjee and her nephew, Abhishek Banerjee. The bond is familial, but its consequences have always been political. At 38, Abhishek Banerjee occupies a position unmatched by anyone in the Trinamool Congress except Mamata Banerjee herself. Yet at a moment when the party is grappling with one of its most turbulent phases, marked by internal dissent, electoral setbacks and mounting questions over leadership, he finds himself at the centre of the storm. To supporters, he remains the face of generational change. To critics, he is Bengal's most prominent "nepo kid," the beneficiary of political inheritance whose rapid ascent reshaped the party's power structure and who is now being held responsible for many of its present troubles. Once seen as the heir apparent, Abhishek has increasingly become the target of growing frustration and anxiety within the Trinamool Congress.

Mamata has many nephews and nieces, but party insiders have long maintained that Abhishek, the son of her brother Amit and sister-in-law Lata, enjoyed a special place in her political universe. During the years when the Trinamool was battling the Left Front, he was among the few younger members of the family who identified with her political struggle.

That early association steadily translated into influence and then authority. After the Trinamool's victory in 2011, Abhishek's rise was swift. He was handed charge of YUVA, a youth platform that critics saw as a parallel power centre, signalling that the nephew was becoming the heir.

The move triggered unease. Senior leaders complained that a new structure was being created outside established organisational channels. Mamata brushed aside such concerns. But the symbolism was impossible to ignore. The nephew was now becoming a political stakeholder. By 2014, Abhishek had entered Parliament from Diamond Harbour. His rise thereafter was unmistakable. Unlike many Bengal politicians shaped by decades of street politics, Abhishek brought a distinctly managerial approach. Educated in Kolkata and later trained in business management, he embraced technology, digital outreach and data-driven political planning. Online membership drives, social media campaigns and structured organisational reviews became his style.

The old Trinamool spoke the language of agitation. Abhishek increasingly spoke the language of strategy. That shift became even more visible after the BJP's gains in the 2019 Lok Sabha election. Faced with a growing challenger, the Trinamool undertook a major overhaul. Political consultancy firm I-PAC became deeply involved. The experiment paid off electorally. The party returned to power with a decisive victory in the 2021 Assembly election.

Yet success did not silence criticism. Many felt that traditional party structures were being overshadowed by consultants. Veteran leaders complained that political instincts built through decades of grassroots work were being replaced by presentations.

Over the years, he evolved into a polished political operator. His image became increasingly corporate and carefully managed. Supporters saw professionalism and modernisation. Critics saw distance from the party's grassroots culture. Formally, he is the national general secretary. Informally, he is regarded as Number Two.

Every organisational dispute, electoral setback or internal rebellion eventually circles back to the same question—has too much authority become concentrated around one leader and his inner circle? The pressure has intensified as legal and political controversies continue to follow him. Investigations, notices and prolonged questioning by agencies have kept him under constant public scrutiny. Abhishek has consistently denied wrongdoing and described such actions as politically motivated, but the controversies have nevertheless complicated his political journey. At the same time, he faces the burden that accompanies every political heir. For now, Abhishek Banerjee remains suspended between inheritance and achievement, between proximity to power and ownership of it as the Trinamool Congress fights an existential battle that none would see coming so early, and where he emerged as the villain.

MP tops list of stolen ASI artefacts in 6 decades

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

AT least 488 artefacts, mainly sculpture and idols, have been stolen from monuments under the custodianship of the Archaeological Survey of India (ASI) in 19 states and three Union territories in the past six decades. Significantly, a majority of them are yet to be traced.

The states of Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan and Uttar Pradesh together account for nearly 65% of all recorded theft with 319 stolen artefacts.

According to the officials, the list—updated till 2024—comprises only reported cases. Records suggest that several theft cases happened frequently from temple complexes, forts, museums and sculpture sheds in Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan and Uttar Pradesh between 1960s and the early 2000s. The oldest case dates to 1961, when 15 Buddha and Bodhisattva sculptures were stolen from the Nalanda Museum in Bihar.

Around 420 artefacts untraced

MADHYA PRADESH 142

None has been recovered.

As per the list, while some recoveries have been made over the years, around 420 valuable sculptures, idols, architectural fragments and historical objects remain untraced or unrecovered. Notably, the ASI, which is the national watchdog of 3,697 monuments, does not have photographs of many of them.

1961 Nalanda Museum theft remains oldest unresolved case

Trump accuses Meloni again, she says attacks 'senseless'

WASHINGTON

DONALD Trump on Saturday lashed out at Italian Prime Minister Giorgia Meloni, insisting that she asked "over and over" for a photo with him at the recent Group of Seven summit and criticizing what he said was Italy's lack of cooperation during the Iran war.

The remarks deepen the spat that began this week with the Republican president's interview with an Italian broadcaster, during which Trump claimed Meloni "begged" for the photo during the G7 meeting in France. Meloni has called that "completely fabricated." The dust-up led Italy's foreign minister to cancel a planned trip to the United States as Meloni's government lined up in her defense.

"Italian Prime Minister Giorgia Meloni asked, over and over, for a picture with me during the G-7 meeting in France," Trump wrote on his social media platform while spending the weekend at the Camp David presidential retreat. He misspelled her first name in the initial post, which he later corrected.

He continued: "She is doing poorly in Italy with her level of popularity, possibly because she turned down the United States of America, a Country that truly loves and protects Italy, when it came to denying Iran from obtain-

Iran shuts Hormuz again over Israeli strikes, sends team for Swiss talks

US military says forces remain present and vigilant to ensure compliance with the Iran deal

TEHRAN

IRAN said it was once again closing the vital Strait of Hormuz shipping lane on Saturday over Israel's attacks in Lebanon, calling them a violation of its deal with the United States to end the West Asia war.

Israeli troops battled Hezbollah fighters while its warplanes conducted deadly strikes in Lebanon's south on Saturday, hours after the United States announced a renewed ceasefire in the fighting there.

The ongoing hostilities had already strained the deal signed by US President Donald Trump and his Iranian counterpart Masoud Pezeshkian this week to halt the wider regional war on all fronts, including Lebanon — a key demand of Tehran's. Citing a US "breach of contract" and "the Zionist regime's continuous and relentless violation of the ceasefire in southern Lebanon", Iran's central military command announced Saturday "that the Strait of Hormuz will be closed to vessel traffic".

Technical-level US-Iran talks to begin today, says Pak

ISLAMABAD: Pakistan said technical-level US-Iran talks aimed at restoring peace in West Asia will begin in Switzerland on Sunday, with Pakistan and Qatar acting as mediators. The discussions follow this week's Islamabad memorandum, which opened a 60-day negotiation window and was signed by Pakistan as guarantor. US Vice President JD Vance said negotiators Steve Witkoff and Jared Kushner were already in Switzerland, while Iran's delegation was also headed there.

Meanwhile, the US military's Central Command said after the announcement that its "forces remain present and vigilant to ensure all aspects of the agreement with Iran are adhered to".

Iran seeks pact guarantees

An Iranian delegation left for Switzerland on Saturday afternoon, state media reported, with foreign ministry spokesman Esmail Bagaei saying they would "demand implementation of the other party's commitments" under the deal as soon as possible.

"Otherwise, the entire understanding will be in trouble," he said, according to official news agency IRNA. After postponing a planned trip the day before, US Vice President JD Vance told Fox News on Saturday that he too expected to travel to Switzerland for talks in "the next couple of days, but you know it's always a delicate coordination dance".

US negotiators Jared Kushner and Steve Witkoff were already in Switzerland handling "some of the technical elements" and had reported that "things are going well", Vance added, just moments before the Iranian announcement about the Hormuz strait. AFP

Pak court convicts four Imran allies over riots

LAHORE

A Pakistan court on Saturday sentenced four senior leaders of jailed former premier Imran Khan's party to 10-year imprisonment in a case related to the 2023 riots, while it acquitted ex-foreign minister Shah Mahmood Qureshi.

Violent protests erupted across the country on May 9, 2023, mainly in Punjab and Khyber Pakhtunkhwa, following the arrest of former cricketer-turned-politician Khan. The protesters vandalised dozens of military installations and state-owned buildings. Former Punjab governor Omar Sarfraz Cheema, former Punjab health minister Dr Yasmin Rashid, former Punjab minister Mian Mehmoodur Rasheed, and former Senator Ejaz Chaudhry were convicted for their role in attacking and burning police vehicles in Mughalpura area of Lahore.

The verdict, which was reserved on Thursday, was pronounced by Anti-Terrorism Court (ATC) Judge Manzer Ali Gill. The convicts have been lodged in Lahore's Kot Lakhpat Jail since 2023 and have earlier been sentenced in other cases related to the riots.

RCPL PLANS TO INVEST ANOTHER ₹30,000 CRORE OVER THE NEXT THREE YEARS TO BUILD INTEGRATED FOOD PARKS

RCPL said that they are now expanding into the North-East, West Bengal, Bihar, and other geographies

Leading the charge for RCPL is Campa, which achieved ₹4,700+ crore ($496 million) in gross sales in FY26

₹24,200 crore last fiscal.

To achieve its goal in the FMCG space, RIL stated that it will invest heavily in manufacturing. After investing ₹10,000 crore in production to date, RCPL plans to invest another ₹30,000 crore over the next three years to build integrated food parks across India.

"We are building Food Parks across India — modern, integrated facilities with multi-category production lines spanning biscuits, chocolates, staples, and packaged foods, designed to drive scale efficiencies through cross-category integration. Over the next three years, a further ₹30,000 crore ($3.2 billion) of investments will build one of Asia's largest networks of such integrated food parks — AI-driven, robotics-enabled, and engineered for lasting cost leadership," said Ambani.

The company is also betting high of geographical expansion. RCPL is available at 3 million+ outlets through 5,000+ distributors in three years, which the company claims is faster than any player in Indian FMCG history. The RCPL said that they are now expanding into the North-East, West Bengal, Bihar, and other geographies.

Ambani said that what took their peers decades, they achieved in just four years. "It made us one of the fastest-growing FMCG platforms in India's history, and one of the fastest-growing consumer product companies anywhere in the world. Today, RCPL products are present in more than 40 countries through exports and franchise sales, making RCPL a truly global Indian consumer brand," she said.

Leading the charge for RCPL is Campa, which achieved ₹4,700+ crore ($496 million) in gross sales in FY26. Reliance claims that Campa, which competes with Coca-Cola and PepsiCo, is now India's fourth-largest carbonated soft-drinks brand, with a double-digit market share in key markets.

Jio IPO set to mint billions for global investors

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

THE proposed listing of Jio Platforms is set to deliver massive gains for some of the world's largest technology companies, sovereign wealth funds and private equity investors that backed the company during its landmark fund-raising exercise in 2020.

Based on the DRHP, Jio plans to raise about $4 billion (around ₹36,000 crore) through the issuance of 270 million fresh shares, representing 2.9% of the post-issue equity capital. The numbers imply an issue price of roughly ₹1,330 per share and a post-listing market capitalisation of nearly ₹12.5 lakh crore.

The biggest beneficiary among non-promoter shareholders would be Meta Platforms. Its investment arm, Jaadhu Holdings LLC, invested ₹Rs 43,574 crore in Jio in 2020 for a 9.99% stake.

Google International LLC, which invested ₹33,737 crore, would see the value of its holding rise to approximately Rs 93,000 crore, also representing a gain of nearly 2.75 times its original investment.

What's behind Jio Platforms' $3-billion deleveraging plan

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

WITH over ₹70,000 crore in total borrowings, Jio Platforms plans to deploy a significant portion of its IPO proceeds towards debt servicing and repayment, underscoring the company's focus on strengthening its balance sheet after completing the most capital-intensive phase of its nationwide 5G rollout.

According to the Draft Red Herring Prospectus (DRHP), the Reliance Industries-backed company intends to use ₹27,500 crore, or $3 billion, from the IPO proceeds to repay and service debt. The proposed deleveraging forms one of the largest uses of funds in the public issue and could substantially reduce the company's existing debt burden.

The move comes even as Jio's leverage position has already improved considerably over the past few years. As of March 31, Jio Platforms reported total borrowings of ₹70,781 crore, down from ₹73,060 crore a year earlier, reflecting the tapering of debt after the peak investment

REDUCING DEBT

1 RIL-backed firm intends to use ₹27,500 crore from the IPO proceeds to repay and service debt

2 As of March 31, 2026, Jio Platforms reported total borrowings of ₹70,781 crore, down from ₹73,060 crore a year earlier lated to telecom and digital infrastructure expansion.

While the gross debt remains sizeable, the company claims that its liquidity position significantly reduces its leverage risk. Jio held ₹43,202 crore in cash and marketable securities at the end of FY26, bringing its net debt down to ₹27,579 crore. In effect, more than 60% of the company's borrowings are backed by cash and liquid investments.

The DRHP suggests that Jio is entering the public markets after largely completing the heavy investment cycle that transformed it into India's largest telecom operator. As capital expenditure requirements moderate, the company appears to be prioritising balance-sheet strengthening and cash-flow generation.

This is reflected in its leverage metrics. Jio's net debt-to-EBITDA ratio declined to 0.36 times in FY26, from 0.71 times in FY25 and 0.88 times in FY24. The ratio is significantly better than many telecom peers, indicating that it has been able to improve earnings, while gradually reducing debt.

SUNITHA NATTI

THE Gulf war is likely to end following the latest peace deal between the US and Iran. On cue, global crude oil prices slumped to $76 per barrel from a peak of $120 last month. Helpfully, the Indian crude oil basket, too, averaged $76.11 on June 18. For the month so far, the average stood at $89.88, down from $114.48 in April and $106.23 in May. Yet, higher fuel prices seem inevitable throughout 2026 for at least three reasons.

First, even if the Strait of Hormuz reopens, the return of West Asian oil barrels will not happen overnight. It will unfold over weeks and months as confidence gradually returns among insurers and shipping companies. Likewise, restarting shut-in oil wells and repairing damaged oil infrastructure will take months, not weeks. This means oil production, and therefore supply, may remain below pre-war levels for an extended period.

Lastly, as Suresh Gopi, Union Minister of State for Petroleum and Natural Gas, noted, there will be a lag between the current decline in global crude oil prices and refiners and retailers sourcing cheaper crude and eventually passing on the benefit to consumers.

This means pump prices are unlikely to return to pre-conflict levels tomorrow. No one knows exactly how long the correction will take. Worse, if the peace deal falls through, prices could surge even higher. Dampening optimistic expectations, the US Energy Information Administration (EIA) said last week that a return to pre-conflict shipping volumes is unlikely before next year. It expects oil shipments through the Strait of Hormuz to resume only during July-September, with some Middle Eastern oil production remaining disrupted beyond its short-term energy outlook.

According to estimates, oil production in the West Asia fell by more than 11 million barrels per day in May, leading to significant global inventory draw-downs. The agency expects global oil inventories to decline by an average of 6.3 million bpd in Q2 2026 and by 7.6 million bpd in Q3. Worryingly, OECD oil inventories are expected to fall to their lowest levels since 2003. The good news, however, is that if the ongoing US-Iran peace process holds and normal oil production and exports are restored, the global oil market could shift from supply disruptions and shortages to a supply glut by next year. If events unfold as expected, the International Energy Agency (IEA) projects a surplus of more than five million bpd in 2027.

In fact, the Paris-based agency's latest outlook forecasts an oversupply of 8 million bpd, far

In all, the IEA estimates that the Iran conflict likely to have blocked over 14 million bpd of Middle Eastern oil production and exports, forcing economies to exhaust their emergency stockpiles besides scrambling for alternative supplies and new energy security strategies exceeding projected demand growth of 2 million bpd. However, this forecast assumes a gradual recovery in Gulf oil production and exports.

Overall, the IEA estimates that the Iran conflict has disrupted more than 14 million bpd of Middle Eastern oil production and exports, forcing countries to draw down emergency stockpiles while scrambling for alternative supplies and new energy security strategies. Since the outbreak of the war in February, oil inventories have declined at a rate of 3.8 million bpd, while strategic reserve drawdowns accelerated to around 4.6 million bpd in May alone.

Looking ahead, the agency expects inventories to decline further in the near term. How-

‘Any increase in scrutiny of transfer pricing arrangements unlikely’

PUSHPITA DEY @ New Delhi

INDIA'S transfer pricing framework has evolved into a globally aligned regime that strikes a balance between providing certainty to taxpayers and protecting the country's tax base. As a result, any significant increase in scrutiny of transfer pricing arrangements is unlikely, said CA Prasanna Kumar D, President of Institute of Chartered Accountants of India (ICAI).

"Over the years, India has introduced several measures to address transfer pricing issues, including the Advance Pricing Agreement (APA) and Safe Harbour provisions. These have contributed significantly to providing long-term certainty, reducing disputes, and simplifying compliance. Accordingly, we do not foresee any extraordinary increase in scrutiny of transfer pricing arrangements," Kumar D said.

However, he cautioned that as with any tax administration framework, appropriate checks and balances must be maintained. The ICAI said the government has consistently worked towards honouring its international treaty commitments. Citing the India-Mauritius tax treaty framework as an example, the institute said it has significantly strengthened investor sentiment towards India. These efforts, aligned with the broader ease of doing business agenda, have positioned India as a more predictable destination for global capital.

"The continued recognition of the India-Mauritius tax treaty framework, together with the government's emphasis on policy certainty and ease of doing business, has reinforced investor confidence in the Indian market," Kumar D added.

Responding to a question on whether foreign investors continue to perceive ambiguity between treaty protections and anti-avoidance provisions, Kumar D said: "Two developments together help reduce the perception of ambiguity. First, the SC has clarified that while a Tax Residency Certificate is necessary, it is not by itself conclusive of treaty entitlement, and that authorities may examine the commercial substance of an investment structure. Second, the administration has responded by issuing clarifications in favour of grandfathered (pre-2017) investments, including restoring legacy protection for such investments."

ever, 2027 could witness a significant supply overhang, allowing countries to rebuild depleted emergency reserves and replenish commercial inventories. That said, the agency cautions that a full recovery remains far from certain.

Political uncertainty, prolonged demining operations and unresolved shipping arrangements could slow oil exports from the Gulf even after a formal peace agreement is signed. More importantly, the US-Iran peace deal is not final. It is only a 60-day negotiating framework aimed at reopening the Strait of Hormuz, ending military engagement and paving the way for a broader agreement to end the war.

However, markets appear to be jumping the gun, behaving as though the two countries have already waved the white flag and oil exports are set to resume immediately. The reality is that even if the Strait reopens, it will not, by itself, mark the end of the conflict. Even the most bearish forecasts assume only a gradual restoration of supply next year.

Meanwhile, emergency stockpiles are being depleted rapidly. In March, the IEA agreed to release 400 million barrels of oil from global strategic petroleum reserves to cushion the supply shock and stabilise oil markets. Responding to the IEA's call, the US alone released about 170 million barrels, reducing its strategic petroleum reserve to 340.3 million barrels—its lowest level since 1983. Other countries followed suit.

The IEA requires its 32 member countries to maintain emergency oil reserves equivalent to at least 90 days of net crude oil and petroleum product imports. This implies stronger-than-usual oil demand next year as countries replenish their strategic reserves.

Despite production outages and falling inventories, Brent crude prices declined in May amid weaker oil demand and reports of a possible US-Iran agreement. If the Strait of Hormuz remains largely closed to shipping in the near term, the EIA expects tightening inventories to keep Brent crude averaging around $105 per barrel in June and July. Once traffic through the strait gradually resumes and producers restore shut-in output, prices are expected to ease to an average of $79 per barrel in 2027.

India's data centre pipeline estimated to reach 8.33 GW

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIA'S data centre development pipeline is expected to reach 8.33 GW, according to a report by Knight Frank India. The report said 0.32 GW of data centre capacity is currently under construction, 2.92 GW is at the committed stage, and 5.41 GW is in the early stage.

Driven by accelerating AI adoption, growth in cloud computing, digital transformation initiatives and data localisation requirements, India is rapidly emerging as one of the world's most attractive destinations for hyperscale digital infrastructure investments.

The scale of the pipeline reflects growing confidence among hyperscalers, cloud service providers, AI infrastructure operators and institutional investors.

Viral Desai, International Partner and Senior Executive Director – Occupier Strategy & Solutions, Industrial & Logistics, Capital Markets & Retail, Knight Frank India, said, "India's data centre growth story is increasingly becoming a tale of regional specialisation. While Mumbai continues to anchor hyperscale deployments owing to its connectivity advantages, Hyderabad is emerging as a preferred AI infrastructure destination, and Chennai is strengthening its role as a strategic gateway for international data traffic from east."

PHILADELPHIA: Neymar is expected to return from a right calf injury and play for Brazil in its final group match, coach Carlo Ancelotti said. He said Neymar would go through individual training on Saturday, train with the team on Monday and “will be available” for tie against Scotland.

Tunisia look for inspiration

MONTERREY (Mexico): Tunisia is looking to Cape Verde for inspiration ahead of the next game against Japan, newly appointed coach Herve Renard said Friday. Renard, who was hired after 5-1 loss to Sweden, said his side must earn at least a point against Japan to stay alive.

Algeria file plaint over Messi tackle

Surf up: Cunha shines as Brazil get vital win

MATHEUS Cunha struck the back of the net and struck a pose, bringing scoring — and a dash of surfing — to the World Cup stage for Brazil. Vinicius Junior scored and assisted on one of Cunha’s two goals as five-time champion Brazil eliminated Haiti from the World Cup with a 3-0 victory on Friday night. “To be at a World Cup, to imagine that, it can be so wonderful,” Cunha said. “It’s a dream fulfilled.” Haiti became the first team guaranteed not to reach the knockout round of this edition. Meanwhile, the Selecao got the decisive performance they needed. “It was what I expected from this match,” Brazil coach Carlo Ancelotti said. Results: Group C: Scotland 0 lost to Morocco 1 (Saibari 2); Brazil 3 (Cunha 23’, 36’; Vinicius Junior 45+3’) bt Haiti 0. Group D: USA 2 (Burgess 11’-og, Freeman 43’) bt Australia 0; Turkey 0 lost to Paraguay 1 (Galarza 2’). Group F (Saturday): Netherlands 5 (Brobbe 5’, 17’, Gakpo 47’, 54’, Summerville 89’) bt Sweden 1 (Elanga 59’).

After two easy wins, Harmanpreet Kaur and Co face South Africa. A look...

Chance to consolidate

A win on Sunday would all but seal the semis spot for India. However, it will not be easy. These two teams know each other inside out and South Africa know how to beat India. And they need this win more than India to stay alive.

Injury blows

Shreyanka Patil’s injury is a massive blow as she was used in all phases of the game. In her absence, India will have to rely on Radha Yadav or Prema Rawat, a leggie. How they adapt and utilise the resources would be key

Krishna, Jaiswal help India finish 3-0

ASHOK VENUGOPAL @ Chennai

A CLINICAL performance by Prasidh Krishna and the batters helped India defeat Afghanistan by nine wickets in the third ODI and clean sweep the series 3-0 at the MA Chidambaram stadium here on Saturday evening. Yashasvi Jaiswal responded to critics with a comprehensive, unbeaten ton in Chepauk. Rohit Sharma also dazzled with a 79-run knock. The duo registered a solid opening stand worth 170 runs that put India on track for a win. The chase was complete in the 29th over. This also marks Shubman Gill’s first ODI series win as captain. Earlier, Prasidh Krishna’s 5/23 enabled India to restrict Afghanistan to 218, with skipper Hashmatullah Shahidi’s knock (102) one of the few silver linings.

Chasing 219, the hosts got off to a good start with Jaiswal striking the ball well. While Rohit initially showed intent — he struck three boundaries off Fareed Ahmed — he took the cautious route on the course of the match. But when Rashid Khan was brought into the attack, he milked runs off the ace spinner to notch up his 62nd fifty in ODIs. His knock ended when an ambitious pull landed straight into the hands of Sediqullah Atal. Brief scores: Afghanistan 218 in 44.2 overs (Shahidi 102, Omarzai 50; Prasidh 5/23, Prince 1/38) lost to India 224/1 in 28.4 ovs (Jaiswal 110 n.o., Rohit 79). MESSI-RONALDO DEBATE THROUGH POLITICAL LENS

How political ideology may influence who you pick among the two

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN

DO you consider yourself a liberal? Chances are, you prefer Lionel Messi over Cristiano Ronaldo. Conversely, you would generally plump for Ronaldo over Messi in all debates. This is according to a first-of-its-kind study conducted by a team led by professor Saifuddin Ahmed, a faculty at NTU’s Wee Kim Wee School of Communication in Singapore. The international survey of more than 10661 respondents in 26 countries (India leans towards Ronaldo according to the findings) was published on the university’s website on Friday. Ahmed spoke to this daily on the method used, what was the inspiration behind undertaking such a niche study, how he interprets the India numbers and the significance of Spain preferring Messi over Ronaldo, a country where both players spent their best years in at the same time. Excerpts:

SPAIN DESPERATELY NEED LAMINE YAMAL AND GAVI TO STEP UP VS SAUDI ARABIA. A LOOK...

CONVERTING CHANCES

Lamine Yamal, who came off the bench in the 70th minute against Cabo Verde, couldn’t make a difference. He is unlikely to start again but the fans will hope to see him turn on the magic. Despite making several forays into the opposition box, Spain attackers failed to find the net and they will be hoping for an improved display.

SAUDI RELY ON DEFENCE

Saudi Arabia are no pushovers and Uruguay found just that in their opening tie. Despite Uruguay’s numerous attacks, Saudi defenders stood firm to earn a valuable point then. They’ll look to replicate this against the 2010 champions.

eree (Salvador’s Ivan Barton) to have a look at the pitchside monitor. Once he saw what happened, he issued a red.

For just talking? That sounds a bit harsh?

Not necessarily. This rule change is an immediate legacy of what happened during a Champions League match between Benfica and

Real Madrid last season. After Vinicius scored a goal, he had alleged that Prestianni had insulted him, including using a racial word. There was an investigation after which the Benfica player was banned after being found guilty of a homophobic conduct. Post this episode, the ultimate rule-making body, International Football Association

XPLAINER

Board (IFAB), fast-tracked the rule change in April.

So players can never cover their mouths while speaking to opponents?

Context is important. Per the new laws of the game: “... at the discretion of the competition organiser, any player covering their mouth in a confrontational situation with an opponent may be sanctioned with a red card.” Per the letter of the new law, this was a classic red card offence, as the Almiron and Mulder were in a ‘confrontational situation’.

Dutch of class from Brobbey and Gakpo

AGENCIES @ Houston

BRIAN Brobbey and Cody Gakpo sizzled as Netherlands beat Sweden 5-1 in a Group F tie in Houston on Saturday. Brobbey scored as early as the fifth minute. The goal was put on the plate by Gakpo, who found Brobbey inside the box. Brobbey once again showed his predatory instinct inside the box with a smart finish to double the lead. Gakpo then went on to score a double in the second half. Later, substitute Crysenicio Summer-ville put the icing on the cake.

FOCUS ON FORWARDS

Belgium were playing catch-up against Egypt until striker Romelu Lukaku’s introduction. He made an instant impact by helping the team get a goal. With him unlikely to start, Belgium need Jeremy Doku, Leandro Trossard and Kevin De Bruyne to produce the goals.

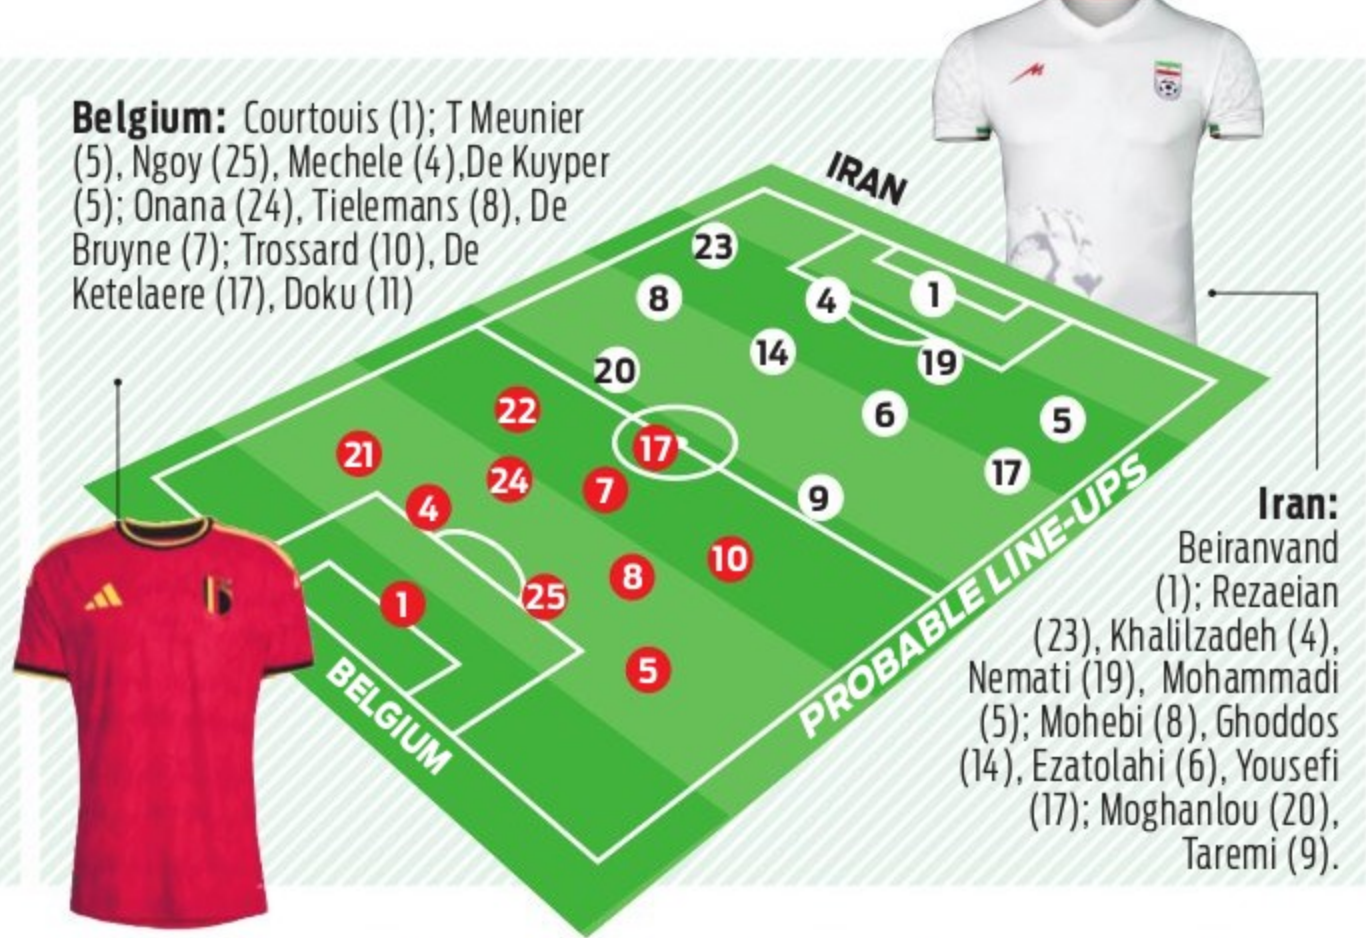

BIG TEST FOR IRAN

After months of uncertainty, Iran did very well to snatch a point against New Zealand. The result showed their fighting spirit and they’ll be looking to make it hard for Belgium. Mehdi Taremi, in his third WC, will be looking to disrupt the Belgium back-line.

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

SOMETIMES, the disappearance of a single word can reveal more than a major policy announcement. The growing preference within the Trump administration for “Asia” over “Indo-Pacific” may seem semantic, but in geopolitics, language often signals strategic intent. The shift has sparked a debate over whether Washington is recalibrating its regional priorities, and what that could mean for India, the Quad, and the balance of power in Asia.

The debate intensified after the US Defense Department renamed the Indo-Pacific Command (INDOPACOM) as Pacific Command (PACOM), restoring its original title. Combined with the November 2025 US National Security Strategy’s use of “Asia” rather than “Indo-Pacific”, the move was read by policy experts as a retreat from a concept that has shaped regional diplomacy for nearly a decade. For India, its implications could extend well beyond terminology.

Why Indo-Pacific matters

The concept of the Indo-Pacific emerged from the growing recognition that the Indian and Pacific oceans had become a single interconnected strategic theatre. Trade routes, energy flows, military deployments, and geopolitical competition increasingly linked East Asia, Southeast Asia, South Asia, and the western reaches of the Indian Ocean. The idea gained prominence during the late 2010s, particularly under the first Trump administration. It reflected a growing concern in Washington, Tokyo, Canberra and New Delhi about China’s expanding economic influence, military modernisation and increasingly assertive regional posture.

By replacing the older framework of “Asia-Pacific” with “Indo-Pacific”, policymakers were making a deliberate statement. The change in terminology explicitly recognised India as a central strategic actor rather than a peripheral one. It broadened the geographic map of regional security and signaled that the future balance of power would depend not only on developments in East Asia but also on the Indian Ocean.

The phrase quickly became embedded in official documents, defence strategies, diplomatic dialogues, and alliance structures across several countries.

The Quad and the Indo-Pacific vision

Perhaps no institution embodies the Indo-Pacific concept more clearly than the Quadrilateral Security Dialogue, or Quad. The grouping brings together Australia, India, Japan and the United States. First proposed in 2007, it remained dormant for several years before being revived during Trump’s first term. Its revival coincided with growing concerns about China’s regional influence and a shared desire among the four countries to preserve a rules-based order in the region.

Although Quad members have consistently rejected descriptions of the grouping as an anti-China alliance, its emergence has often been understood as a response to Beijing’s growing geopolitical weight. The Quad has expanded beyond traditional security concerns to include cooperation on maritime awareness, critical technologies, supply chains, infrastructure, cyber security, climate resilience etc.

The Indo-Pacific framework provided the conceptual glue that held this agenda together. It gave the four countries a shared strategic geography and a common vocabulary for discussing regional challenges.

That is why any apparent retreat from the term “Indo-Pacific” immediately raises questions about the Quad’s future trajectory. If the organising concept loses prominence in Washington, observers naturally wonder whether the institution built around it could lose momentum as well.

Early signals of change

The debate intensified after the publication of the US National Security Strategy in November 2025. The document continued to view India as an important partner and expected New Delhi to contribute to regional security. But unlike the 2017 NSS, which repeatedly emphasised the “Indo-Pacific”, the 2025 document referred instead to “Asia”.

Security documents are carefully crafted texts. Every phrase reflects internal debates, bureaucratic compromises, and policy preferences. When a term disappears, analysts wonder whether it reflects a broader rethinking of strategy.

The key question is whether the new terminology represents a genuine strategic shift or simply a rhetorical adjustment.

The shift away from the term “Indo-Pacific” may reflect more than a change in diplomatic vocabulary. It could signal a broader reassessment of how the Trump administration views America’s role in Asia and, crucially, its relationship with China.

The Indo-Pacific framework emerged during a period when Washington increasingly viewed China as a strategic challenger and sought to strengthen partnerships with countries such as India, Japan and Australia. The Quad’s revival under Trump’s first term was widely seen as part of that effort to build a network of like-minded powers capable of balancing Beijing’s growing influence.

The current administration, however, appears less interested in organising regional strategy around explicit competition with China. Rather than constructing coalitions aimed at balancing Beijing, it has signaled a preference for reducing geopolitical commitments and avoiding new antagonistic blocs. In this context, the shift from “Indo-Pacific” to the more neutral “Asia” may be an attempt to move away from a framework that had become closely associated with strategic rivalry and containment.

This also gains significance amid recurring discussions in Washington’s strategic circles about a possible “G-2” approach -- the idea that the world’s two largest economies, the United States and China, have a unique responsibility to manage global stability through engagement rather than confrontation. While the administration has not formally embraced such a framework yet, its reluctance to foreground China-centric alliances has fuelled speculation that it prefers selective cooperation with Beijing.

The change may also reflect the administration’s longstanding emphasis on burden-sharing. The 2025 National Security Strategy continues to expect regional powers, including India, to contribute more actively to their own security and regional stability. Rather than positioning the US as the primary guarantor of order, the document suggests a model in which local actors shoulder greater responsibility.

At the same time, Washington faces competing demands in Europe, West Asia, and Asia. Economic pressures, domestic priorities and concerns about the costs of overseas commitments have strengthened arguments for a more restrained foreign policy. A narrower regional framing may therefore be part of a broader effort to reduce strategic obligations while preserving American influence.

Taken together, these shifts suggest a departure from the expansive Indo-Pacific vision that defined much of the past decade. The question is no longer whether the United States will remain engaged in the region, but whether it still sees balancing China as the organising principle of that engagement.

The future of Quad

The future of the Quad will likely depend less on terminology and more on strategic realities. The factors that led to the Quad’s revival have not disappeared. China remains a major economic and military power. Maritime disputes continue across the region.

Supply chain vulnerabilities remain a concern. Competition over emerging technologies is intensifying. These challenges provide continuing incentives for cooperation among Australia, India, Japan and the United States.

The Quad is no longer defined solely by security concerns. Its agenda now encompasses technology partnerships, resilient supply chains, disaster response, health security and infrastructure development. This broader institutional base makes it more resilient than it was a decade ago. However, language matters because it shapes perceptions and priorities. If Washington places less emphasis on the Indo-Pacific concept, Quad members may seek greater clarity about the administration’s long-term intentions. Questions could emerge about resource commitments, strategic focus, and the extent of US engagement in the region.

For India in particular, maintaining momentum within the Quad will require ensuring that the grouping remains relevant regardless of shifts in American political rhetoric.

Strategic re-orientation?

The debate over the “Indo drop” ultimately comes down to whether it represents a change in language or the early signs of a broader strategic adjustment in Washington. The shift in terminology is difficult to ignore. The absence of “Indo-Pacific” from a major US strategic document, alongside the renaming of INDOPACOM as Pacific Command, clearly suggests that the concept may no longer occupy the same central place in American strategic thinking. The National Security Strategy continues to identify India as an important partner, the Quad remains active but is far from institutionalising its summit meetings.

The more likely explanation is that Washington is refining its approach rather than abandoning the Indo-Pacific framework altogether. The Trump administration appears inclined toward a more selective and interest-based foreign policy. For India, this calls for caution as the Trump administration deepens ties with a strategically useful Pakistan and recalibrates its relationship with China. The reality is that India’s place in US strategy will depend less on the terminology Washington adopts and more on the convergence of interests between the two countries. As US priorities evolve and strategic attention shifts, India will need to continue strengthening its economic, military and diplomatic capabilities. Ultimately, the durability of the partnership will be determined not by rhetoric, but by whether both sides continue to see tangible value in working together.
